TLS. 1,000,000 LOSS IN FIRE AT CHUNGKING SAYS REPORT

Up-River Center Is Swept By Flames

ORIGIN UNKNOWN

Foreigners Suffer In Disastrous Blaze

(Special Dispatch To The China Press)

Hankow, Sept. 1.—Telegrams received here today from Chungking report that a disastrous fire swept the business district of that city on the night of August 28th. The origin of the flames is as yet unknown, but a high wind was sweeping the city at the time and it was impossible to check the spread of the conflagration.

Among the property totally destroyed were the Barry property, and Dodwell & Company's offices, residences and pontoon.

Mr. J. H. Morrison and Mr. W. A. Peake were also heavy losers.

Mr. Barry is covered by insurance and will rebuild immediately.

The Nisshin Kisen Kaisha offices were partly destroyed, and the property of the Friends' Institute is a complete loss. Both are covered by insurance.

Hundreds of Chinese shops and homes and premises of hongs were destroyed.

The loss of life is unknown at present.

The total property loss is estimated at $1,000,000.

Chungking is without fire protection of any kind.

A telegram received by the local offices of the American-Oriental Bank from their branch at Chungking yesterday reports that the Commercial Press property at Chungking was also destroyed the conflagration. The message states that everything outside of the walls was lost.

Another dispatch received here reports that the home of General Yang Sen, Szechuenese commander, was destroyed by the flames.

Constantinople, August 31.—Fifteen persons were killed in an explosion of a powder magazine at Makrikeuy near San Stefano. The cause of the explosion has not yet been determined.

Alleged Murderer Seized By Police

Police of the French Concession yesterday afternoon arrested and turned over to police of the Sinza station a man known as Sung Kwei-fong, alias Za Ah-tsung, who, with three other men, is charged with murder and armed robbery in connection with a raid on a shop at 1300 Ta Tung Road on March 1st.

Strict Neutrality

The action of the various foreign Chambers of Commerce, referred to elsewhere in this issue of the China Press, in deciding unanimously to refrain from any form of interference or even friendly mediation in the present clash between Chinese military factions in this area is to be commended. It is but natural, we suppose, that the Chinese commercial and financial interests here should desire the assistance of foreigners in stopping the threatened war, but it must be realised by the Chinese as well as by the foreigners that we are now living in a new era and that the days of foreign interference —except for extreme cause— in China are over. Although the Nine-Power Treaty guaranteeing the political territorial and administrative integrity of the Chinese Republic which was signed at the Washington Conference some two years ago has not been ratified by all of the Powers, it nevertheless stands as the program of a new day. The only thing which could bring foreign intervention now would be a wholesale move against foreigners—which of course is not expected—and the intervention in such a contingency would of necessity have to be an international affair.

The foreign policy in connection with the present situation, although not officially expressed will undoubtedly be to protect the Foreign Settlements and foreign interests and keep the Port of Shanghai open. There are now in port approximately a dozen foreign war-craft belonging to four or five different countries. These ships are not here for intervention but purely for the protection of foreign interests in case they are needed. The great concentration of foreign residents and investments in the Shanghai territory makes these precautions necessary, but there is nothing which may be interpreted as unfriendly to China in this action.

In case actual fighting develops and the field of battle is extended to the Shanghai area there is always the possibility that one side or the other might attempt to bring about a situation making foreign intervention or mediation desirable. This is a possibility which must be watched most carefully and although it might quite easily cause a serious crisis and apprehension in the Settlements, the foreigners should stick to their position of absolute neutrality and the policy of defending the settlements and keeping the Port open at all hazards.

The present occasion offers an excellent opportunity for demonstrating to China that the foreign policy of "hands-off" carries with it responsibilities for China and the Chinese people. Any intelligent Chinese who has observed the hordes of panic-stricken citizens of China—men, women and children—crowding into Shanghai in the last few days to escape the wrath of their own officials, should have subject for serious thought on the general state of this country. The foreigners have no choice of course but to give these unfortunate people refuge, but the fact that they are coming here for protection, should have deep significance for every Chinese citizen interested in the welfare of his land.

To repeat again the statement in the opening paragraph of this discussion the foreign policy in connection with the present serious situation is that of absolute neutrality. This carries obligations for every foreigner, individuals, business houses, commercial and other organisations and the newspapers—especially the newspapers. We repeat the last word because the responsibility resting upon the foreign newspaper is tremendous. To observe neutrality from the standpoint of intervention by the foreign chambers of commerce or military forces and then to violate this neutrality by having a foreign newspaper actively putting forward the views and propaganda of one side to the detriment of the other is—well —we scarcely know a term sufficiently strong to use for such a situation.

Chekiang And Kiangsu Prepare For Strife

Above, left, Coolies at Quinsan who have just been unloaded from the cars shown at the right of the photograph, which brought them down Sunday morning from some point above Soochow, probably Changchow. They were picked up by soldiers in the streets, and, while promised pay, will probably get nothing more than their "chow" for transporting munitions to the front.

Above, right, A detachment of Chekiang soldiers being moved from the railway to take up first line positions facing Chin's men spread out from Quinsan, fifteen miles away.

Below, left, The railway station at Huangtu. To the left of the road are tents and sheds where guns are mounted, which will be turned on the railroad when the fighting starts.

Below, right, The Commander of a body of a soldiers who were moving across country to take up positions on the "firing line", if any. Chekiang soldiers began to move into advanced positions on Saturday and had not frightened the country people away. Chinese, picking cotton in the fields, hardly stopped to watch the soldiers pass.

The above photographs were taken Sunday in the course of a journey to Quinsan.

FOREIGN BODIES HOLD ALOOF IN IMPENDING WAR

Strict Neutrality To Be Maintained; Naval Forces Are Augmented

Despite increasing apprehension on the part of the Chinese that the war between Kiangsu and Chekiang is about to burst any moment, the foreign population of Shanghai is maintaining a strict neutrality, even while the war craft in the Whangpoo are augmented daily by new arrivals, there being five American destroyers, 3 British, 1 Japanese and 1 French gun-boats here now.

Although the consulates have not released any official statement it is known that the only part the foreign powers will take in the event of war between the Chinese factions will be to protect the International Settlement here and to keep the port open so as to insure adequate supplies of food for residents.

The General Chamber of Commerce, composed of representatives of all the chambers, held a committee meeting at noon Saturday, to discuss the proposal of the Chinese Chamber that foreign intervention should be used as a warning flag to stop the onrush of Marshal Chi Hsieh-yuan and General Lu Yung-hsiang at each other's throats. At the meeting Saturday, following independent meetings of all the Chambers in Shanghai, it was decided that there was no justification for any foreign interference in a purely Chinese fight; that the foreign chambers would not seek to bring about friendly foreign mediation; that in the event of actual fighting, if the Chinese Chamber of Commerce thought the foreign Chambers could do anything to localise the fighting or mitigate it in any way, they would receive suggestions. The General Chamber meeting was emphatically opposed to sending any delegations to mediate between the two Chinese generals.

Northern Cavalry Join Kiangsu Forces, Report; Catholic Church Looted

Strengthening of the Kiangsu forces by troops from the north and virtual completion of the mobilisation of these groups on and close behind the front line crossing the Shanghai-Nanking railroad was reported last night by missionaries who came to Shanghai and in reports from missionaries to their consuls. Among the latter reports was included one to the French consul of the looting of a French Roman Catholic church by Kiangsu soldiers.

From a man who reached Shanghai yesterday after a trip south to Pukow by railway with short stops at Nanking and Chinkiang it was learned that 5,000 cavalry followed the line of the Grand Canal south the latter part of last week and crossed the Yangtsze at Yangchow to join General Chi's army. He also reported the significant fact that although all launches and boats on the section of the canal north of the river were seized and used for the transport of soldiers last week they are now being turned back to the owners.

A report to the French consul general states that for four days before the sending of the dispatch four trains a day loaded with soldiers had passed from Tientsin to Nanking on the Pukow line.

From Nanking down through Chinkiang very few soldiers were seen by travellers. Just west of Wusih encampments appeared and were thick from there on.

Memorial Rites Mark Anniversary Of Quake

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Sept. 1.—The ringing of bells and temple gongs and the blowing of whistles and a general suspension of business and traffic throughout the city for one minute this morning marked the hour of 11.58 at which last year Japan was visited by the most stupendous calamity in her history.

This first anniversary is being duly observed all through the day. Memorial services for the dead are being held, the chief of which was that held in the presence of 100,000 persons including representatives of the Imperial Family, members of the Cabinet and other notable personages on the site of the former Army Clothing Depot in Honjo Ward, where thousands lost their lives last year. This service was held under the auspices of the Mayor and the Municipality.

This was followed by other services according to Buddhist, Shinto and Christian rites respectively. Services were also held elsewhere in memory of those who perished in the river Sumida and otherwise.

In Yokohama this morning Bishop Heaslett conducted a representatively attended service in memory of the stricken members of the foreign communities, while in Kobe former residents of Yokohama passed a resolution of gratitude to the residents of Kobe for their generous succour and refuge in time of distress.

The day in general is being observed as a holiday but without music and without the opening of pleasure and amusement resorts.

The press devotes much space to reminiscences of September 1 last year.

Addressing those assembled this morning at a service, Mayor Nagata laid special stress on Japan's gratitude for the assistance rendered from abroad last year. He called on all to remember that assistance in the observance of the anniversiay.

A year to the day from the time when the earth wrought devastation upon their homeland and brought death and suffering to millions of fellow-countrymen, members of Shanghai's Japanese colony yesterday held commemorative services in the Japanese public school in North Szechuen Road.

The leading Buddhist priest of the Japanese community delivered an address recalling the earthquake and the disasters of fire which followed it. He urged that the sufferings of the people be kept sharp in the memories of their countrymen. A large number of persons attended the service, which was held under the auspices of the Japanese Buddhist Association.

Many Japanese business firms were closed for the day or part of the day in commemoration of the great disaster, but no other gatherings than the large one at the school voiced the sentiments general throughout the colony.

ROLLING STOCK FERRIED ACROSS TO NANKING SIDE

Freight Cars Transferred From Pukow, Foreign Observers Says

For the first time in the history of railroads in China freight cars are now being ferried across the Yangtsze River at Nanking. According to reports received in Shanghai yesterday by foreign firms from their agents in Nanking the transferring of freight cars from Pukow, the terminus of the Tientsin-Pukow Railway on the north bank of the Yangtsze, to Nanking on the south bank has been in progress for several days and a considerable amount of rolling stock has been accumulated in Nanking in this way for war purposes. The Tientsin-Pukow Railway which operates from Pukow to Tientsin is under the control of president Tsao Kun and General Wu Pei-fu, so the transfer of rolling stock shows that actual assistance is being rendered to General Chi Shih-yuan in the impending fight with Chekiang.

The method of ferrying the cars across the river has been accomplished by lashing two large junks together and building a railroad track across them. On each side of the river the railroad tracks have been extended to the edge of the river. The cars are then run out on the junks and then ferried across by a launch to the landing place on the Nanking side.

Foreign engineers in Shanghai are of the opinion that experience gained in the moving of freight cars across the Yangtsze at the present time may result finally in the construction of a regular train ferry across the Yangtsze connecting the Shanghai-Nanking line and the Tientsin-Pukow line. When Mr. John R. Freeman, prominent American engineer was in China a couple of years ago he submitted a plan to the Ministry of Communications showing the feasibility of constructing a railroad ferry at Nanking for the transfer of trains across the Yangtsze, but the Ministery always questioned the possibility of constructing a ferry owing to the tide fluctuation at this point.

The Yangtse River is about two miles wide at Nanking and in the center is said to be nearly 100 feet deep.

PROSPECTS FOR PEACE MORE BRIGHT AS BOTH LEADERS FAVOR PLAN

Boundaries To Be Fixed By Official Representatives Of Both Camps Previous To Calling Parley Of Belligerents To Discuss Terms; Report Of Yihsin Clash Denied By Lunghua

At 12 o'clock midnight, the Kuo Wen News Agency circulated the report that Kiangsu troops were advancing towards the Chekiang first line of defense in two directions: one from Luchiatz Anting and the other from Tsingpu to Fengking on the Shanghai-Hangchow line.

Save one wild report to the effect that minor skirmishes had begun in the vicinity of Yihsin, the political situation in Shanghai yesterday took a decided turn for the better. Peace is now ringing in the air. And the belligerents themselves are getting more cautious in the matter of starting hostilities.

The early report of a clash between vanguards of the opposing forces was definitely denied by the military authorities in Lunghua, who asserted that they were in constant communication with the commanders at the front by wireless.

The sudden change of policy on the part of Haugchow in directing the forces of Chwang Tse-ping to Wenchow is interpreted by military men as clear evidence that Chekiang decided to be on the defensive rather than on the offensive. Chwang's troops, the pick of the soldiery under General Lu, were up to yesterday reported to be either on the front line of defense in Wangtu or to be marching into Anhui on an offensive expedition.

Yesterday's report, however, showed that these crack troops are being marched to Wenchow and Hsianshan to guard the provincial highway and ward off any attack which the combined Fukien and Nanking navy might instigate.

PEACE PLAN ACCEPTED

Both Tupan Lu Yung-hsiang of Chekiang and Tuchun Chi Hsieh-yuan of Kiangsu have accepted the proposal made by the local gentry to delay actual military operation against each other, and have sent their aide-de-camps to Shanghai to proceed to the front and ascertain the boundaries so that a parley may be instituted forthwith.

The following is the telegram of General Lu to the peace advocates:

"In response to your telegram of the 30th. I wish to express my endorsement for the plan and am sending to Shanghai my aide-de-camp, Chen Huai, who will act with you to carry out the plan. He is also bringing with him four passes for you to transmit to the parties concerned".

Tuchun Chi Hsieh-yuan's reply was as follows:

"I have received your telegram of the 30th. I appreciate your suggestion to send military experts to the front and ascertain a convenient dividing line for the soldiers. I am accordingly sending my aide-de-camp, Kao Wei-yu, to Shanghai together with the necessary passes. Any courtesies extended to him will be appreciated".

Both Colonels Chen Huai and Kao Wei-yu arrived in Shanghai by train last night and they will meet the four representatives elected by the peace-makers probably today. Of the four, the two

AMERICANS ARE URGED TO JOIN S.V.C. COMPANY

Chamber Of Commerce Backs Up Plea For Recruits To Strengthen Force

An attempt is being made by the American Chamber of Commerce and other American organisations in Shanghai to incite the patriotic American males in the settlement to the proper degree of enthusiasm that will cause them to enlist in the American Company of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps. The American Company is woefully weak in numbers, there being but sixty-one members at present. The Company has suffered a loss of thirty-one of its men since the first of the year, most of whom have left Shanghai. However, in view of the fact that more than 275 Americans resident in China have applied for the adjusted compensation due them for services during the world war most of this number being from Shanghai, it is felt that the American Company of the S.V.C. should make a better numerical showing that it does now.

The Corps feels that every young American in Shanghai who can possibly do so, should join the American Company, especially at this time with the war clouds scurrying over the horizon. The Company was in fine fettle at the end of the training season and it will be a source of very great regret if its value is lessened because of its numerical weakness.

Prospects For Peace More Bright As Both Leaders Favor Plan

Kiangsu delegates Lung Chu and Chiao Tsung-ping are already in Shanghai, while only one of the Chekiang men, Chen Chi-tsai, is in town. The other, Koo Nai-ping, went to Hangchow on Sunday and was telegraphically asked to return immediately by the local pacifists last night.

Mr. Lung, when seen by newspapermen, yesterday entertained little hope for the realisation of the plan suggested by the local gentry but was willing to give the plan a fair trial, since the peace-makers were so enthusiastic about it, he said.

Another moving unit was sent to Liuho yesterday by the Chinese Red Cross under the personal direction of Dr. W. S. New. The Mission Hospital and a school there were turned into quarters for the society. Mr. S. C. Lee of Lee Lee Garage offered the services of six motor cars, which facilitated the transportation of the doctors and nurses as well as medical supplies for the Liuho Unit.

Liuho is still heavily guarded by Chekiang soldiers while Taichong and Luchu about 5 miles north are garrisoned by Kiangsu forces.

Governor Han Kuo-chun of Kiangsu sent a representative to Shanghai Saturday and invited Ex-Premier Tang Shao-yi to act as mediator in the political situation. However, Mr. Tang declined the offer, saying that he did not see how he could accomplish anything since both side are so bent upon hostilities.

The two hundred rifles used by the cadet corps of the Chiao-tung University were commandeered by General Ho on Sunday. A letter was addressed to Admiral Chen, president of the university, by General Ho to say that he was obliged to make use of the arms as matter of expediency and would return them to the institution as soon as normality was established.

GIRLS ASSAULTED, REPORT

Three cases of assaults on young girls by Kiangsu troops were reported in Quinsan. One farmer was shot for refusing to be pressed into service, according to the Chinese press.

General Chen Yao-shan, commander of the fourth division arrived in Wuchow yesterday and will personally direct the operations at the Western theater of War. His headquarters will be at the Ningpo and Shaoshing Guild.

The Widows' Home at Huchu, Soochow, has been dissolved by order of the board of directors. The inmates have been sent back to their relatives as a temporary measure.

Martial law was declared in Wusih, Changchow, Soochow, Chinkiang and Yangchow by the Kiangsu authorities on Saturday.

Two Kiangsu airplanes landed in Wusih on Saturday. A new airdrome is being rapidly arranged in this city. More machines are expected.

About $2,500,000 has been released at Shanghai as proceeds of the sale of the German drawn bonds for the military expenses of the Chihli party. It is understood that Marshal Wu Pei-fu has endorsed the plan for the settlement of the Gold Franc case, which right will be mortgaged for $10,000,000 with foreign banks to swell the war chest of the government.

Chen Tiao-yuan, the right hand man of Tuchun Chi Hsieh-yuan, is now in Changchow, making use of the railway station and cars as his headquarters. Part of his forces are being transported to Wusih.

In compliance with the order of Tuchun Chi, the magistrate of Wusih commandeered the launch Tungshun and 16 junks on Sunday and sent them to Changchow, says the Chinese press.

Peking Analyzes Opposing Forces

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 28.—The suspension of traffic on the Shanghai-Nanking railway yesterday is explained by telegrams from Nanking saying that during the night of the 26th instant and the morning of the 27th the 6th Kiangsu Mixed Brigades were transported over the railway from Nanking to Soochow and the vicinity of that city, in eleven trains eight of which travelled during the night and three next morning. The transportation of these troops was completed by noon.

Telegrams received by the Ministry of Communications and foreign firms in Peking report that the Shanghai-Nanking train service is normal today and it is assumed that the Blue Train left Shanghai last night.

A telegram received in Peking yesterday stated that the Shanghai-Hangchow-Ningpo railway was also interrupted. No mention was made of where the interruption had occurred, and two possible explanations are given in Peking. The first and most probable one is that General Lu Yung-hsiang was using the line to transport troops from Hangchow towards the Kiangsu border. The second is that Kiangsu has broken the line to cut off communications between General Ho Feng-lin and Chekiang.

No outbreak of hostilities is reported, but official telegrams from Shanghai agree in the assumption that fighting cannot be avoided. It seems to be the general opinion in Shanghai that the Chekiang troops were the first to move and that the position taken up by Marshal Chi's troops at Wusih was the natural counter-move against the Chekiang forces at Changhing on the other side of Taihu.

The Chekiang forces are now supposed to consist of:

	Men
4th Chekiang (Luchun) Division of	8.000
10th Chekiang (Luchun) Division of	10.000
1st Provisional Division	8.000
2nd Provisional Division	6.000
1st Mixed Brigade	2.000
2nd Mixed Brigade	2.000
Special troops numbering Tsang Chi-ping's and Yang Yang Hua-chao's	25.000
Recruited within the last last few months	4.000
Giving a total in Chekiang of	78.000
While General Ho Feng-lin has at Shanghai 16th Mixed Brigade of Chekiang troops	2.000
6th Mixed Brigade of Kiangsu troops	3.000

are approximately, including garrison troops, infantry totalling 12.000

Giving a grand total of .. 95.000

From this number probably the Kiangsu Mixed Brigade should be deducted, as it would probably not fight against the Kiangsu forces.

Marshal Chi Hsieh-yuan has under his command.

	Men
1st Division, consisting of	4.000
2nd Division	4.000
6th Division	8.000
19th Division	3.000
1st Mixed Brigade	4.000
2nd Mixed Brigade	3.000
3rd Mixed Brigade	3.000
4th Mixed Brigade	3.000
5th Mixed Brigade	3.000
76th Mixed Brigade	3.000
Reserve Corps	4.000
Giving a total of	42.000

Thus if General Lu turned his whole strength against Marshal Chi the latter would be outnumbered by more than two to one, but the Chekiang forces have been split into three, Generals Tsang Chi-ping and Yang Hua-chao having left Hangchow in the direction of the Fukien border to meet the menace from General Sun Chuan-fang, the remaining forces being divided between Hangchow and Changhing. The Chekiang position at Changhing would enable General Lu's forces to strike at Nanking in the event of the Kiangsu forces making a general attack on General Ho Feng-lin at Shanghai.

There is reason to believe, however, that a third column is being prepared in Anhui, and military experts in Peking think that the strength and fighting qualities of his column must prove the deciding factor in the struggle, if the present movements lead to combined action against Chekiang.

Both Chekiang and Kiangsu are well supplied with artillery and each has aeroplanes. Fukien forces are now well equipped and their artillery is not good. General Sun Chuan-fang is not likely to put more than 20,000 troops in the field.

No further reports have been received regarding the troops sent down river from Nanking or of the fleet that followed, or of the so-called neutral squadron at Shanghai.

War Reports Are Scanned In Peking

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 29.—Foreign and Chinese reports from the South report that the preparations for war are being vigorously continued in Kiangsu and Chekiang and at various points along or near the frontiers of these provinces, but no actual fighting is reported except by the Hsin Pao, which says that a skirmish has occurred on the Chekiang-Anhui frontier in which only small forces were engaged. The paper adds that this report requires confirmation. No movement of main forces is reported.

This Hsin Pao also says that the Chekiang forces have been divided into three main commands, under General Lu Yung-hsiang, Yang Hua-chao and Chen Leh-shen. General Yang Hua-chao is now at Changhing. General Tsang Chi-ping has been sent to the Anhui frontier, and General Pan Kuo-kang is in command on the Chekiang-Fukien border.

On the Kiangsu side it is reported that Marshal Chi Hsieh-yuan will make his headquarters at Changchow, on the Grand Canal, while General Chen Yiao yuan is in command at the front near Wusih.

Foreign telegrams from Nanking make some interesting predictions regarding the plan of campaign likely to be adopted by Chekiang. It is expected that General Chen Leh-shan, who commands "Peihan" troops, will make a direct advance from Changhing toward Lihinghsien, which is just over the border near Taihu, while General Yang Hua-chao will strike at Nanking.

According to information derived from Chinese military circles the 9th Division, commanded by General Tung Chengkou, will shortly be sent to Lanchow.

AIRPLANES SENT

Captain Chiang Kuai left here on August 27 with four aeroplanes for Nanking. He was accompanied by ten pilots.

Reports regarding the movements of the warships in the disturbed regions are awaited with interest. The ships under the command of Admiral Tu Hsi-kwei include the gunboats Chu Yu, Chu Tai, Chiang Yuan and Chiang Yen, and five torpedo boats, These are the boats that accompanied the troops down river from Nanking, and are part of the Yangtze Squadron, which includes the Admiral flagship and eleven gunboats stationed at various points higher up the river.

There are also under the command of the Chihli party eleven warships at Tsingtao, Chefoo and Lungkow. These vessels are badly in need of repairs and it is believed that only three cruisers and five torpedo boats are seaworthy.

Admiral Lin Chien-chang, commanding the "neutral squadron" at Shanghai, has the cruiser Haichow (which was recently reported to be disaffected), the gunboat Yung Chi, the destroyer Chien Kang, transport Ching An, and the torpedo boats Su and Chen.

According to Chinese telegrams the Consular Body has recently been in communication with the rival Admirals with a view to gaining an assurance that there would be no fighting in Shanghai waters.

The Kokumin reports that Japan's position in Manchuria is growing weaker and weaker, and it ascribes this largely to the unfriendly attitude of General Chang Tso-lin towards Japan. The position of Japan in Manchuria must always claim the earnest attention of the Japanese people, the Tokio paper says, and it is regrettable to note that the general situation in that region has lately been developing a phase decidedly unfavorable to Japan. Notwithstanding the fact that General Chang Tso-lin owes his present position to the help given him by Japan, directly or indirectly, his general attitude towards Japan has not been friendly of late.

Among those who will be greatly missed in Peking during the coming winter will be the Cuban Minister, Monsieur Barnet, and Madame Barnet, who are proceeding on a year's furlough on or about September 6 via Europe in the Paul Lecat. They will first visit their married daughter in Holland and arrive in Havana about the time of the Cuban Elections (November.) Always very hospitable, M. and Mme. Barnet have endeared themselves to the whole cosmopolitan society of Peking. There is a fear that M. Barnet, like others of his colleagues, may be offered a European post, and will not return to China which will still further deplete the rank of the "old hands" in Peking diplomacy. It is noteworthy that in point of seniority, M. Barnet is titular doyen, since the departure of M. Oudendyck on short leave, but he declined to take over the archives owing to his leave having been granted.

Local Japanese Ball Team Beats Gallopers In Old Fashioned Slugging Match

The M. B. K. assembly of ball-players went out to the Recreation Grounds yesterday to show that they were just as speedy as their brothers from Keio University. The Gallopers were not prepared to believe it at first, but after the Japanese scored two runs in the first inning and three more in the second, and tacked on a couple more for luck in the third—the Gallopers having been able to collect three in the meantime the conviction seemed to be gaining headway that it was not necessary to send to Tokio for Japanese ball-players.

The M. B. K. team, in fact, is up to the standard of the Keio players, but they put up an excellent game, and we had a good old slugging match, the final score being 9 to 7. After the first three tragic innings the Gallopers steadied down and Jawn Scott, who pitched throughout, tightened up somewhat, but the damage was done.

There were four home runs, two on each side, Scott and Taylor lining out homers for the Gallopers. The Japanese got both of theirs in the first inning, starting off like a Kansas cyclone with homers by Hidaka and Sakurai.

The box score was as follows:

Burlesque And Beauty In Carlton Ballet This Week

There is a splendid ballet program at the Carlton, and at its neighbor the Palais de Danse, this week. Of the several feature numbers there is one turn, the Charlie Chaplin girls, which is one of the cleverest, most unique, and most enjoyable bits of burlesque dancing which has ever been produced here. This is noted with particular pleasure by people who enjoy the original Chaplin, but have gotten very much fed up with some of the raw imitations that appear on the screen from time to time.

In this dance, however, there is a really good take-off on Chaplin's walk and gestures and antics, exaggerated as only a clever ballet artist can exaggerate them, which results in a creation of pure fun which keeps the spectators in a gale of laughter from the moment the first Chaplin makes his (her ?) appearance. Not only the physical movements, but the facial expressions, the big sad eyes, the mournful and pensive touches, the juvenile naivete of the face, are excellently mimicked by these clever girls. Of course their figures differ slightly from the slender grace of Charles the Great, especially in the excess girth of the-er-hips, but one can't have everything.

The girls give themselves to these antics with such zest that one of them, Miss Mary Robert, had the bad luck to twist her knee last night at the finish of the dance on the Roof Garden. It was a most painful twist, but the girl had the nerve to get up and limp clear across the stage, maintaining the awkward Chaplin walk, to the exit, smiling and apparently nonchalant, an exhibition of pure nerve for which she deserves a medal. Fortunately, the accident was not very serious, and though she had to lay off last night, Miss Robert will be back on the job tonight as usual.

There is also a b'- Egyptian ballet on the program. This is a beautiful number. The "Carlton Girl" dance is being repeated also, being presented this week by special request, many having wanted to see this very pretty ballet again. This is arranged to Mr. Bakaleinikoff's catchy music, which has made such a hit here.

In addition, there are a number of solo and other acts, including a Hungarian dance by the graceful and gifted Smirnova.

Victoria-Olympic Management Books Special Big Films

Through arrangements just concluded, the management of the Victoria and Olympic theaters are able to announce for showing at these theaters a series of super-special photoplays of the best American and European types.

Preparations have been under way for some months past to obtain the best available photo-plays, and it is claimed that during the coming year Shanghai theater-goers will thereby have presented to them a type of films distinct from those regularly shown on the program plan.

As evidence of the dramatic treats in store, the Victoria management announces for showing during the week of September 8th to 14th, Diana Karnne, the celebrated European star, in "The Martyr Queen," which it is claimed, will be a real event in the annals of Shanghai theaterdom. The film, in eight parts, tells the story of Marie Antoinette, "martyr Queen" of France, from the time that she came from the Court of Vienna to be the bride of the Dauphin of France until the final days of her trial and death by the guillotine. It is said to be chiefly remarkable for the accuracy of its historical delineation and the exactness of its costuming and settings.

During the same period—Sept. 8th to 14th, the Olympic Theater will show Graham Cutts' special production, "Woman to Woman" from the play by Michael Morton. This production was made in England, with Betty Compson, the famous American star, specially imported for the stellar role. The supporting cast includes Clive Brook, Josephine Earle, Marie Ault and M. Peter.

Usually a vessel is despatched every few months to make collections of lepers at various points, but none has been sent out since December.

According to the report of Dr. Jose Avellana, Chief of the Culion Leper Colony, a total of 6,103 persons are confined there, four of whom are Americans. The colony consists of 2,487 men, 1,318 women, 802 boys and 496 girls. There are 1,134 single and 2,350 married lepers; 267 widows; and 1,299 children.

Philippine Sugar Crop Expected To Show Big Increase

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, August 18.—The centrifugal sugar crop of the Philippine Islands for the coming season—1924-1925—is estimated at 418,000 metric tons by the Philippine Sugar Association. This is an increase of 107,911 tons or 34.7 percent over the previous year. In a statement the Sugar Association says:

"This is expected to be the largest increase in tons shown since the development of modern sugar culture in the islands, although not the largest percentage of increase shown in any year. The big increase in production here will mean much more money for the planters and better times for the islands generally, especially if the upward tendency of price continues. Practically every sugar central in the Philippines will have a big increase in output this year as compared with last year."

The eight shop assistants present at the time were frightened by the display of the pistol and readily yielded up the contents of the cash box. No shots were fired.

When Tsoong and his party left, they were set upon by a gang of loafers at North Chekiang Road and Elgin Road, and Tsoong was stabbed. Examination at the hospital showed two deep knife wounds in the back and one smaller wound.

Further Evacuations Are Proposed By France As London Pacts Are Signed

Documents Agreed Upon At Conference Are Officially Approved By Delegates At Informal Ceremonies At Foreign Office In Downing St.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Aug. 30.—The London Pact was signed at the Foreign Office today.

Later.—The London Pact was signed at one o'clock today.

There were five documents, namely, the protocol and four annexes. The delegates signed in alphabetical order, the British Empire delegates following Sir Eyre Crowe, who signed on behalf of Great Britain.

The Dominions were represented by their High Commissioners and the other Powers by their Ambassadors or Ministers.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Aug. 30.—It is announced that the French Government this evening or at the latest, tomorrow will issue orders for the military evacuation of the Dortmund—Horde area and also of stripe of territory outside the Ruhr occupied since January 11, 1923.

The military evacuation will proceed pari passu with the economic evacuation, which is estimated to last several weeks.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Aug. 30.—The signing of the London Pact was very brief and informal. There were no speeches.

The American Ambassador was present but he did not sign the Pact.

(Reuter's Service)

Rome, Aug. 30.—Herr Schacht, the Director of the Reichsbank, who has arrived here to confer with the Italian Minister of Finance regarding the new bank created under the Dawes plan in respect of Italo-German trade relations, told pressmen that Italy's collaboration in solving economic problems was very valuable to Germany. He was convinced of the utility of the collaboration of great central issue banks.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, August 31.—An official communique says that, while the German proclamation denying war guilt has not yet been received, the French Government protests energetically against the thesis in conflicting with facts and also the formal terms of the Treaty of Versailles.

The facts, says the communique, are that ten years ago Germany attacked without warning a heroic country whose neutrality ought to have protected it, while France of her own accord withdrew her troops ten kilometers inside her frontier.

Germany's denial of these facts, the communique declares, renders a disservice to the cause of truth.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, August 31.—It is officially announced that the Reparations Commission has appointed the American, Mr. Owen Young, interim Agent-General of Reparations Payments; the Belgian, M. Delacroix, Trustee of Railway Bonds; the Italian, Signor Nogara, Trustee of Industrial Bonds, and M. Mantelyean Commissioner of Revenues from Pledges.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, August 30.—In order to note officially the promulgation of the laws enforcing the Dawes plan, the Reparations Commission meets on September 1. The time limit stipulated in the London Agreement for the economic evacuation of the occupied regions also operates from September 1. The collection of customs duties on the frontier between occupied and non-occupied territories ceases on September 9. The measures initiated in order to check traffic on that frontier will be suppressed as from September 20.

(Reuter's Service)

Cologne, August 30.—It is understood that the handing over of German railways to the new company under the Dawes scheme is tentatively fixed for October 7. This does not apply to the Regie, which will be handed over two months later.

Industrial Parley Opened At Peking; Local Men Attend

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Sept. 1.—Upwards of a hundred delegates were present at the opening of the Industrial Conference at the Ministry of of Commerce this morning, at which Dr. W. W. Yen presided. Dr. Wellington Koo represented the President.

Dr. Koo, in a speech, said that he hoped that the Conference would be the means of improving both commerce and industry.

Dr. Yen welcomed the delegates, and in a speech covering a wide range of subjects, dealt with various aspects of trade which could be improved.

The Shanghai delegates Mr. Li Shih-mai and Mr. Muno Chu, replying, expressed appreciation of the action of the Government in arranging the Conference.

Six Are Killed In Fighting Over Klan

(Reuter's American Service)

Herrin, Ill., August 30.—Six persons were killed and several injured in a street fight here today connected with the trial of two brothers charged with murdering a constable who was a Ku Klux Klansman.

Sun Yat-Sen Seizes Gardens Belonging To Volunteer Corps Head

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, August 26.—The Chan Garden in the Western Suburb of Canton, one of the finest residences of the city and home of Mr. Chan Lim-pak and his brothers, has been taken by Dr. Sun Yat-sen, Generalissimo of the Government in Canton. Mr. Chan Lim-pak has been accused of intriguing for the the overthrow of the Kuomintang Government under Sun in Canton. The charge against Mr. Chan has grown out of the fact that Mr. Chan is commandant of the Canton Volunteers, who are demanding unconditional return of the consignment of arms and ammunition seized by Dr. Sun on August 11.

The Canton Merchants Volunteer Corps have removed their active headquarters to somewhere outside Canton. It is understood that they will have nothing but unconditional return of their newly-imported arms. Dr. Sun, seeing that the people as a whole are for their volunteers, has offered through Dr. C. C. Wu, his Secretary of Foreign Affairs, to return the arms and ammunitions under certain conditions, these including repudiation by the volunteers of the general strike and their future submission to new regulations to be drafted for their control. It is unlikely that the terms offered by Dr. Sun will be accepted and, in the meantime, the people will suspend their trade as a protest and cease paying taxes to the authorities.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, August 25.—Mr. Chan Kung-shau, second in command of the Kwangtung Provincial Merchants Corps, is now directing the people's movement in Futshan, a city some 15 mils west of Canton. The 138 volunteer units in Canton and vicinity outside the police jurisdiction of the city proper of Canton are under his command.

The merchants of the leading cities of Kwangtung met at Fatshan on August 21 and passed a resolution which, in brief, states:

"The uprising of bandits and pirates in Kwangtung has made the life of the people intolerable and rendered it necessary for a union for common defense and general welfare. The Government, as self-constituted by Dr. Sun Yat-sen and his party, has failed to afford the people the desired protection and, upon the coming of the people together to devise measures for self-protection, has seen fit to prevent their union through an amalgamation of the volunteer units of the province and confiscate the arms and ammunitions they have legally imported for common defense. Under the present tyranny and misrule of the Government, it will be impossible safely to carry on trade in the province and the merchants are advised to suspend their business in order effectively to arouse the Government to its proper sense. At the same time it is asked that the volunteers of the province of Kwangtung shall be permitted to amalgamate without further interruption by the Government, that all arms and ammunitions illegally seized by Dr. Sun Yat-sen shall be unconditionally and immediately returned to their proper owners and that the liberty of the officers of the volunteer movement in Canton shall not be restrained by the Government.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, August 25.—By a special order of the Civil Governor, no more public cemeteries in Canton will be confiscated and sold by the authorities, as the protests from those the bones of whose ancestors have been dug, scattered, and unaccounted for have become too voluminous to be disregarded.

The "Three Star" Society of Canton, an organisation of seamen founded a year ago to resist the attempt of Dr. Sun Yat-sen's mercenaries to exact more tribute than the customary taxes from the rice junks entering Canton Harbor, has refused to come to the support of the Kuomintang political party, and the society is now in danger of being disbanded as an illegal body.

The presence of the followers of Dr. Sun Yat-sen in Canton has also been responsible for the existence of "Iron Blood" Society. The members of this society have a similar purpose, that is to defend Cantonese girls from the evil influence of the Dr. Sun's mercenaries and overseas followers.

Exodus of well-to-do citizens from Canton still continues, on account of the non-settlement of the arms dispute between Dr. Sun Yat-sen and the Canton Merchants Volunteer Corps.

There is no Satisfactory Substitute for Keds!

Keds are the standard by which all canvas rubber-soled shoes are judged. They make you proud of their appearance as well as enthusiastic about their comfort and wear.

Keds, of course, vary in price according to type. But no matter what kind of Keds you buy, every pair gives you the highest possible value at the price.

They're good-looking shoes, Keds. There's a cut and style to them that give your feet that trim look—yet, they're tough, springy and long wearing.

Your feet couldn't be cooler or more comfortable unless you wore sandals!

Remember—while there are other shoes that may at first glance look like Keds, no other shoes can give you Keds value. Keds are made only by the United States Rubber Company. If the name KEDS isn't on the shoes, they aren't real Keds.

scattered across the country and in groups in spots suitable for camps. Machine guns, both assembled and partly taken down and on frames for human carrying were seen in large numbers.

At Quinsan trains are stopped and passengers and baggage subjected to minute search. Several passengers who seemed in the least bit suspicious were promptly marched off for further examination, though without brutality. Beyond Quinsan soldiers were scattered. Many scouts and signalmen with their flags extended in open sight about two miles beyond the station. Then for a mile and a half no soldiers were in open sight and after that the scouts of the Chekiang troops appeared.

Openly posted sentinels of the two armies were about three miles apart and the heaviest forces of the two provinces between six and seven miles apart. The Chekiang soldiers at Hwangtu scrutinize passengers and baggage as carefully as their opponents at Quinsan.

No details of the looting of the church were received except that it is located at the small town of Siao Hun Tung. It was the belief of Consul General Wilden that no foreign priest was in attendance and that the Chinese attached to the church probably fled unharmed. Some anxiety is felt, however, pending the arrival of further information.

CHANG PLEDGES AID

The French consulate also reported rumors that General Chang Tso-lin had placed $1,000,000 at the disposal of General Lu in a Chinese bank and had informed him that eight hours after receipt of a telegram that the Chekiang forces had been attacked the airplanes and troops of the Manchurian War Lord would attack the Chihli group in the north.

An understanding is known to exist between Consul General Wilden of the French Concession and the consular group in the International Settlement in regard to any steps considered necessary for the protection of foreigners. In case of an emergency the senior naval officer will command ashore and afloat, but men will not be landed from the men-of-war unless absolutely necessary, according to Mr. E. S. Cunningham, Consul General of the United States and dean of the Shanghai consular body.

It is known that Mr. Cunningham would like to see for himself the areas where troops are gathered and make his own estimate of the situation, but hesitates to do so lest the purpose of his trip be mistaken to be a diplomatic one at variance with the policy of absolute neutrality he considers foreigners must observe.

Dry Goods Clerk Asserts His Claim To Polish Throne

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, August 18.—Charles S. Hendel, a clerk in a dry goods store here, claims to be the rightful heir to the throne of Poland, should monarchy ever be proclaimed in that country. Hendel claims to be in possession of papers which will prove that he descended from John III of Poland (Sobieski) who gained the throne of Poland by his victories in 1673 over the Swedes, Tartars and Cossacks and ten years late the the Turks.

Hendel fled Poland when a boy and went to America, but returned to his native land at the outbreak of the Russo-Japanese war during which he served in the Russian Ambulance corps. He was personally decorated by the Dowager Empress of Russia.

Prospects For Peace More Bright As Both Leaders Favor Plan

mandant of Yichun in Honan, whose troops are now in Kiangsi. It is reported this evening that additional troops will be sent shortly to Shanhaikuan, owing to the arrival of Fengtien troops at Chinchow.

The official report of the Cabinet meeting this morning, while not mentioning any discussion regarding the war situation in the South-east, says that Mr. Chang Chi-chao has been relieved of his post of Chief of Department of the Ministry of Education and has been succeeded by Mr. Chen Pao-chuan.

Lower House Asks Check On Rumors

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 29.—Discussion of the current war rumors in the Lower House this afternoon culminated in the passing of a resolution requesting the President to issue a mandate for the purpose of checking misleading rumors regarding military movements in the south-eastern province. The resolution also called upon the President to take steps to prevent military expeditions in Kiangsu, Kiangsi, Fukien, Anhui and Chekiang.

Peace Is Urged By Peking M.P.'s

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 28.—In an effort to dissuade them from beginning hostilities, a group of 23 M.Ps. representing Kiangsu and Chekiang and headed by Mr. Chen Chung, recently wired to Marshal Chi Hsieh-yuan and General Lu Yung-hsiang. Both of the latter replied of August 24 disclaiming any intention to disregard last year's peace pact, providing that nobody first attacks them. The Kiangsu Tuchun's telegram, after thanking the parliamentarians for their "kind advice," assures them that, as the provincial authority appointed to maintain law and order, he dare not do anything in breach of the pact. "If Chekiang will not invade Kiangsu," Marshal Chi concludes, "Kiangsu will not invade even one inch of Chekiang's soil." General Lu Yung-hsiang is equally emphatic in his assurance that he does not intend to attack anybody without provocation. "The ink of the peace pact," he says, "is not yet dry, yet rumors are rife of an expedition against Chekiang. Confirmation of them is not obtainable but they may not be without foundation. As to who will be the first to break the treaty public opinion must fairly judge. I deem it my duty to maintain peace and preserve the tranquillity of the people."

Eyes Of Peking On Chang Tso-lin

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 31.—Recent rumors of disaffection on the part of General Wang Cheng-ping Deputy Inspector-General of Chihli, Shantung and Honan, and General Feng Yu-hsiang, Tupan of Defence on the North-Western Frontier, towards Marshal Wu Pei-fu have been dissipated as a result of General Wang Cheng-pin's recent visit to Peking, during which he had a long conference with General Feng Yu-hsiang.

It is now reported that General Wang and General Feng are taking joint precautionary measures against hostile action on the part of Marshal Chang Tso-lin whose intentions are a subject of profound interest in Peking, where it is pointed out that a Fengtien offensive would precipitate the biggest conflict in China since the Revolution.

Marshal Chang Tso-lin's vast military preparations seem to have been all timed for completion next year and the flooded country would make a present offensive in North China very difficult. On the other hand, the danger of the elimination of General Lu Yung-hsiang may influence Marshal Chang Tso-lin in favor of warfare this autumn. The changes one way or the other seem about even.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Sept. 1.—According to Chinese press reports General Tsang Chi-ping, one of the two Fukien generals who took refuge with General Lu Yung-hsiang, has crossed the Anhui border and reached Kuangtehfu, but foreign official telegrams do not confirm this.

U. S. Destroyers Are Ordered Here

U.S. Court Fixes Fees For Stewart-Crane Receiver

In the United States Court for China yesterday, before Judge Milton D. Purdy, a motion was heard for allowance of fees to the receiver in the case of the Stewart-Crane Company, in liquidation. Mr. Bowen is the receiver applying for fee, and Mr. Fleming, of Messrs. Fleming and Allman, appeared as counsel. Mr. A. S. Allan appeared as the present receiver. Many other parties are interested in the case, the chief creditor being the American Trading Company, for which Mr. Schuhl, of Messrs. Schuhl and Schoenfeld, appears as counsel.

When the Stewart-Crane Company went into liquidation there was considerable construction work which it had undertaken to carry out which had to be completed by its guarantors, the American Trading Company. In addition to the completing of this work, the receiver had in his hands the liquidation of property belonging to the defunct firm, the collection of money due them, the checking of balance sheets, etc.

Mr. Bowen, in compensation for his services as receiver, asked for a fee of 3,500 taels. On the stand yesterday he stated that very much work and considerable correspondence was involved in his work of winding up the affairs of the Stewart-Crane Company, totalling some 66 days' work in all. While the total amount realised was only some 8,400 taels, Mr. Bowen said his work was altogether disproportionate to this, and asked the Court to allow him the fee mentioned.

A considerable array of legal talent appeared in Court, several creditors interested in the case being represented by counsel. Messrs. Haskell and Moss, Messrs. Fessenden, Holcomb & Snyder, Messrs. Rodger and Husar, and Messrs. Chalaire and Franklin are all involved as counsel for interested parties. Mr. Bowen, on the stand, was questioned by Major Holcomb, Judge Franklin, and others. Objection was raised to the amount of time put in and the compensation claimed was said to be altogether excessive. There was considerable discussion, recital of details of the work done, and reference to papers involved.

In giving judgment, Judge Purdy stated that he was not satisfied that 66 days' full work had been put in. The receiver had done some inspection work, collected and checked accounts, and written some letters. He was entitled to compensation, but when people fail to keep an accurate account of what they do and the time put in they tend to over-estimate the time spent. Also, the practical value of the labor must be considered, when 3,500 taels is claimed for the service of bringing in some 8,000. The Court felt that, everything considered, five percent was adequate compensation, and fixed Mr. Bowen's fee as receiver at 422.80 taels.

Italian Company Case Continued In Mixed Court

The charge of forgery and fraud brought by the Compania Italiana d'Extreme Oriente against a number of Chinese business men here came up again in the Mixed Court yesterday. The defendants are charged with selling or dealing in hats bearing the complainant's name and trade mark, or imitations so close as to be calculated to deceive, thereby injuring the business and credit of the complainants on account of the hats so sold being of inferior quality.

In Court yesterday the defendants appeared before Mr. Ramondino, Italian Assessor, Mr. Shimizu Japanese Assessor, and Magistrate Yui. (Assessor Shimizu is interested on account of the hats being of Japanese origin.) A number of the defendants, put on the stand, gave evidence yesterday, and testified to having purchased and sold hats which they got from Japan, but denied having imitated the complainant's trade marks. The case was continued until today, when it is hoped to conclude the matter and reach a decision.

East Indies Loan Far Oversubscribed

(Reuter's Service)

Amsterdam, August 30.—The Dutch East Indies 75,000,000 Guilder Six Percent Loan was issued yesterday and was very successful.

Later.—The Loan has been over-subscribed several times; hence the subscriptions will be considerably reduced.

Powers Will Meet To Discuss Note Sent By Karakhan

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 28.—The Note from Mr. Karakhan in which he complied with the request to nominate somebody to take over the former Russian Legation has been circulated amongst the representatives of the Protocol Powers, who will probably meet during the week to discuss it. In the meantime the legation premises are remaining in the custody of the Netherlands legation. The Netherlands charge d'affaires was nominated to represent the protocol Powers in the matter and Mr. Karakhan has appointed Mr. Klishko, Councillor of the Soviet Embassy, to represent him. The former has completed task of preparing and checking inventories, in order to satisfy himself that everything is still there, but none of the keys, it was stated at the Netherlands Legation today, will be handed over until the inventories have been checked over with the Soviet representative. This has not yet been arranged.

Yugo Slav 'Red' Trailed By Police

(Reuter's Service)

Nairobi, August 30.—A Yugo-Slav, reputed to be a dangerous Bolshevist propagandist among negroes, boarded a liner at Aden, having booked for Tanganyika. The police were waiting to seize him, but he escaped when the liner called at Mombasa, by landing in the night in a small boat, leaving his luggage behind. He was traced to Uganda in a goods-train which stopped in the wild-game country, where the Yugo-Slav disappeared, although the police closely watched the railway. A few Indians in the train were compelled to wash their faces, lest the fugitive was disguised as an Indian.

A photograph of the Yugo-Slav, taken by an amateur cinematographer aboard the liner was exhibited privately to an audience of police at Nairobi, while a reward was offered for his capture, but all efforts have so far proved fruitless.

The Yugo-Slav is of a swarthy complexion, and easily disguisable as an Arab, an Indian or a Goan.

Possibility Of Return Of Sterling To Par Forms Theme Of Bank's Review

Midland Bank Of London Holds View That The Price Level Of England Must First Decline

The Midland Bank, Ltd., of London, of which the Hon. Reginald McKenna is Chairman, reviews extensively in its July monthly bulletin the possibility of the return of sterling to par. The bank holds that the only road open to a restoration of gold or dollar sterling to parity is that which involves a reduction in the general level of prices in Great Britain relative to that in the United States.

In discussing this problem, the Midland Bank, Ltd., makes the following comment: "The word 'relative' is vital, for such a reduction may take place in two ways. It may come about, first, through a rise in American prices unaccompanied by a rise in British, or accompanied by a less rapid increase: or secondly, by a fall in British prices with no commensurate fall, or no reduction at all, in American. The former, for reasons which have been widely discussed, is by no means improbable in the reasonably near future. The latter has recently received marked attention, bred of impatience with the delay in restoring dollar-sterling parity.

"It is frankly recognised that if the second means be adopted, it must be implemented by a process of deflation in this country. After the experience of the last four years it is unnecessary to point out that deflation, while of itself innocent, travels with a horde of pestilential offspring. Trade depression, unemployment, social disorganisation, and industrial disputes are merely its direct issue, while it is the grandparent of innumerable other troublesome progeny, all of which bear the unmistakable family resemblance. At times, when circumstances demand, the company must be borne with, but the consideration for doing so must be real and very substantial.

"It is impossible to say how much deflation would be required to bring sterling to parity with the dollar, but it would probably be necessary to effect a 10 percent reduction in prices, and it is doubtful whether a rise in the bank rate to 5 percent only would bring that about. Whatever increase was enforced, however, would not only render all trade accommodation dearer, but would increase the curent expenses of the Government, and would at the same time probably do little to check external borrowing on the London market, unless the American investor were suddenly to acquire a predilection for foreign securities. This he shows no sign of doing.

"While there is no present call for drastic measures, when European affairs become more settled the demands for money in this market will be largely increased and will no doubt lead to higher rates. But higher rates arising from this cause would come when there was an increase in the trading activity of the country, and would not be open to the objection that they were imposed with a view to forcing down prices when trade is already below normal.

"The choice before this country lies between a rapid enforced return to the gold standard, with its unavoidable concomitants, and a more gradual return as and when conditions permit, with the probability of a steady trade revival unhampered by restrictions imposed for purely monetary reasons. The choice cannot be made, however, without considering the relative advantages to be derived from a comparatively early or a deferred return to the gold standard. What are the prizes for a rapidly successful return? It is claimed that a certain prestige would result from a restoration of the gold convertibility of the pound sterling, but such a reward would be poor compensation for the trouble undergone in its achievement. Another plausible but invalid reason for undertaking the task is the supposed security which would be afforded to sterling as against the dollar and the reintroduced German gold mark.

"The Dawes report, however, does not appear to advocate as an immediate measure a gold standard for Germany, but a gold exchange standard—that is, an unconvertible currency maintained by limitation of issue at parity with the dollar. It is highly doubtful whether such a standard could obtain any wide degree of currency as a medium of international payments, but it is most likely, that London, with its markedly superior financial services of all kinds, would still be resorted to by those seeking facilities not available in their own country. London, in other words, is unlikely to suffer at all seriously by the inauguration of a currency in Germany closely related to the American dollar.

"It is said that with the rapid restoration of the gold standard this country would enjoy the benefits of a gradually rising price level such as characterised the few years immediately preceding the war, with their attendant prosperity. That may be so, but it is difficult to see wherein lies the special virtue of rising prices based on gold which is not inherent in gradually rising prices based on anything else. Before the war gold and Bank of England loans were the basis of the credit structure. Our supply of gold is now incapable of expansion, but Bank of England loans may still be extended to create a larger volume of bank cash. If a larger volume of credit be called for by expanding trade it cannot be regarded as monetary inflation, any more than credit expansion based on an inflow of gold. If that is all a rapid return to the gold standard can vouchsafe to Great Britain, it is doubtful whether the same results cannot be achieved under our present system. Finally, therefore, it would appear that the expedient course for this country is not to take panicky measures to press a rapid return to the gold standard, but, while sedulously avoiding anything savoring of monetary inflation, to await a more general progress, less obviously attended by the evils of deflation."

Pulp Consumption In American Is Now Put At 8,000,000 Tons

Washington, Aug. 4.—A report on pulpwood paper and pulp conditions, with particular reference to requirements of American paper manufacturers and newspapers, just compiled by the Forest Service of the Department of Agriculture and made public today, shows that these requirements have nearly quadrupled since 1899. They now exceed 8,000,000 tons a year, which is greater than that of all other countries combined. On a per capita basis the United States, the report declares, has double the paper consumption of any other country.

In a comprehensive way the report deals with the present paper requirements of the United States and its probable future requirements. It points out ways and means of meeting the demand for pulp timber and stresses the existing situation arising from the fact that less han half of the pulp timber required for American needs is furnished by native forests.

Commenting on this state of affairs, the report says:

"The forests of nearly every region in the United States are being cut much more rapidly than they are being replaced by growth, and in many regions the original timber supplies have been greatly reduced. The regions from which pulpwood supplies are now being chiefly secured fall within the latter class. This situation is the background of the problem of increasing the domestic pulpwood cut sufficiently to meet the nation's requirements.

"The most urgent phase of the pulp and paper problem of the future," continues the report, "is to secure annually an additional 870,000 cords of spruce, hemlock and fir, and 180,000 cords of aspen or poplar pulpwood from our own forests to offset pulpwood imports. Other important but less urgent phases of the problem are to increase the cut from our own forests to offset the large pulp and paper imports."

In setting forth the situation the report says that the solution of the pulpwood problem involves the following:

First—Increased production of pulp timber on the forest lands of the United States.

Second—The reduction of all manufacturing wastes and the development of new or modified pulping processes which will increase the number of timber species suitable for pulping and make more efficient use of all pulpwood.

Third—The material development of the pulp and paper industry in new regions.

"All of these methods," says the report, "have a distinct and important place in the solution of our pulp and paper problem, and full advantage must be taken of them. Through some of them immediate results can probably be secured to relieve critical situations. The main reliance in ultimately and fully meeting our pulpwood requirements must, however, be placed upon the growing of timber crops on forest land within the United States."

The Predicament Of The Returned Student

A FEW days ago one of the large President ships sailed away from Shanghai America-bound with more than 100 Chinese young men and women on board who are planning to enter various colleges and universities in the United States this fall. It was a happy crowd and there were many songs and college yells and numberless were the streamers of colored paper thrown from the deck to admiring friends and relatives on the dock below as the ship got under way. Four or five years from now these young men and women will be returning to China with diplomas tucked away in their trunks—diplomas telling of many long hours of serious study in the arts and sciences of the West.

But the home-coming will not be so gay and carefree as was observed the other day when the "student" ship steamed out of the Shanghai harbor. The return will not be so care-free as the departure, because the student will be thinking of that all-important job in the homeland and of the place which he is likely to fit into in the scheme of things Chinese.

Just prior to the departure of this year's group of students for the United States, the Minister of Education in Peking issued a statement which was sent to all provincial officials urging that the officials take steps to limit the number of students going to the United States. The Minister of Education, among other things, deplored the fact that the students who go to the United States take on foreign ways and even foreign names and, in addition, he had a number of things to say about the inefficiencies of American colleges and Universities—the latter statement apparently not being based upon a very thorough knowledge of the American educational system.

It is not our purpose to enter into an argument with the Minister of Education of the Republic of China regarding the merits or demerits of the American system of higher education. There are in China a number of colleges and universities operated on the American system by American faculties which are generally considered to be educational institutions of high rank and to compare favorable with similar institutions operated by Chinese faculties, so if the Minister of Education desires proof of the efficiency of American educational institutions he may easily obtain this information without taking a trip to the United States. It is probably true that many of the students who go to the United States to attend college waste their time, but this is also true of students who go to college in China, or in England, or in France or Germany or anywhere else. Many of the students who go to America are not successful because of insufficient preparation at home before departure and many of them fail upon returning to China, just as many of the American graduates of American colleges fail after leaving college. We grant that it would be better if China had the institutions at home suitable for educating most of her students on her own soil, but since they do not exist, it is necessary that a considerable number go abroad.

Now as to the criticism that the students take on foreign ways while residing abroad, a great deal might be said. If our information is correct, the first group of Chinese students sent to America about a half century ago, were criticised on this same point, and according to one account which we have seen, they were forced to return to China because of reports which reached the imperial household that the students "actually were wearing foreign style clothes and were studying such things as Greek and Latin." In spite of this, however, and of the further point that this group of students was forced to return before completing their college courses, several of them became leaders and most useful citizens, both in Government service and out, upon their return to China. It is only necessary to point to such men as M. T. Liang, Y. C. Tong, Chow Tze-chi, Tong Shao-yi, Tsai Ting-kan and several others to prove this point.

The problem of the student returning now and especially due to the fact that so many are returning from abroad with higher educations, is that China has not yet reached the place in her industrial and social development where these men and women can all be absorbed. They have a hard time getting-jobs, simply because the jobs are not there and as a result many of them drift into uncongenial work for which they were not specially trained and do not make a success of life, or at least the success which they started out to make. On the other hand, the fault for this lack of success often rests with the student himself who hesitates to begin at the bottom; he wants to start out at once in a high-salaried position with the Government or some industrial plant.

However, in spite of the adverse propaganda and of the fact that conditions in China have been most discouraging, the returned student, taking him as a class, is finding a place for himself and is making himself felt in the life of the country. Tsing Hua College in Peking, which now has about 600 students who have returned to China with Western educations, recently has been compiling statistics on this subject, and although the work has not yet been completed, a remarkably large number of these young men have already risen to points of importance in China. According to one report, at least 100 young men out of this group of 600 have gotton to places where their work has begun to tell. There are doctors, professors, engineers, lawyers, business men and industrialists who have made names for themselves not only in their immediate surroundings but also in their provinces and some are known over the entire country for their work. One criticism which was made a few years ago that most of the students drifted into Government work or remained in the large coastal ports does not hold good today, for more and more are they going to the interior, where the opportunities are fewer but where the chances for ulitimate success are greater.

A Democratic Prince

THE latest telegrams advise us that popular interest in the visit of the Prince of Wales to the United States is so great that he is sharing the honors with President Coolidge as a front page feature, and what this means in a land where front pages of newspapers are at a premium needs no emphasising. We are told that as the s.s. Berengaria was nearing land, Governor Smith and others wirelessed via an aeroplane 7,000 feet above the liner a message of welcome to the Prince. We may feel sure that there is something more in this warm welcome than mere formality and the common civility shown by the official representatives of one country to a distinguished visitor from another land, and that the reception thus tendered him comes as much from the heart as the statement made by the Prince to interviewers that he was glad to be back in America again.

Now it may well be asked: what is the secret of the fascination which the Prince of Wales unquestionably exercises over those with whom he comes in contact? In his own country and among his own people, the Prince of Wales is frequently referred to as "Our Smiling Prince," but his sway over the minds of men is not confined to his own country but extends to all parts of the world. Nature has richly endowed the Prince, who will one day be King of England, with that indefinable thing which we call personality. Thus when His Royal Highness not long ago visited Hongkong and was asked to give his sanction to the erection of a statue by the people of the Colony, he politely but firmly declined the honor and added that the money could be spent to a worthier purpose in affording succor to war-battered officers and men. There was character in such a refusal. To his utter selflessness is added a gay courage by which men and women cannot help being enthralled. All the world knows that the Prince heeded not the personal perils to which he was exposed when in the firing zone during the War and his remarkable pluck in the realm of horsemanship despite a succession of grave mishaps, so much so that the British Premier was constrained after his last serious accident, to request the Prince to have more regard for the safety of his person in view of the fact that he occupies the high position of heir to the British Throne. There is a sort of gay abandon about the Prince which at once distinguishes him from royalty, and the way in which he rent asunder the trammels of his exalted rank when he visited his Canadian ranch and settled to farming life, even though for a brief spell, demonstrated to the whole world that there is a human touch about the Prince rarely associated with royalty.

Small wonder that New York is now agog with interest. He is certainly about the only Prince whose fame preceded him to New York, which is now very much engrossed in the Presidential question. True, other Princes have figured, from time to time, in the public prints; but their names have been forgotten. Although they come and go, the Prince of Wales is a favorite never to be forgotten. The Prince, though of royal birth, is a democrat at heart, and it is not difficult to understand why he makes such a strong appeal to Americans. The present visit of the Prince to the United States will help to cement Anglo-American friendship still further and to remind the two countries afresh that there is a oneness of purpose and sentiment between them that is infinitely more potent than treaties inscribed on parchment. The Prince has gone to America as an ambassador of goodwill and his visit cannot help weaving into a finer texture the magnificent fabric of Anglo-American amity and co-operation which will continue to be the first essential of world progress.

EXCERPTS FROM GREAT WRITERS

HEAVEN

I have discovered where heaven is. Wherever you are, it is somewhere else.

It is the land of the unattainable, the island that has never been discovered, the shore no ship has ever reached.

Who has found that moment, spoken of by Goethe, where one can say, "Let this moment last forever"?

We were sitting on the top of the mountain, on the platform in front of the little inn, Anushka and I, looking far out over the successive ranges of the Sierras that extended wave-like everywhere. The sun was brilliant. The air was warm. Around us was spread a panorama as beautiful as mortal eyes had ever seen. I was about to ask Anushka if she was happy, when she pointed to a spot over the farthest peaks where the clouds touched the mountain-tops and a gleam of sunshine blessed them, and said:

"There! My soul is yonder. Do you see that spot? It is the dwelling-place of light ineffable. All is peace and joy there. I think that must be heaven."

"You are right," I answered. "That is heaven—from here. But when you get there you will find it only mist. From here those clouds are white and gold, and angels fly among them. If you could reach them you would find it bleak and cold, with only rocks and snow-drifts and desolation about you.

"Then, perhaps, you might see, farther on in the distance, another point full of glory. If you flew to that you would find your glory-point just as far away as ever.

"So heaven flies before us. To us heaven is on Venus, or Saturn, or Arcturus; to the inhabitants of those spheres, who knows? Maybe heaven is on Tellus."

"That," she said, "seems a bitter view."

"Not at all," I returned. "It is the only view that makes happiness eternal. The one everlasting faculty of mankind is anticipation. The one inexhaustible fountain of joy is hope. Those whose happiness is located in the land of hope will always be happy.

"Heaven is in the future, because the future is infinite. Besides, the future is the only time when we can be happy without alloy. The past, even as to the pleasantest moments of it, is always a little sad. So no one's heaven is in the past. The present is fleeting, sinking every minute into the darkness of the past. So no man's heaven is in the past. The present is fleeting, sinking every minute into the darkness of the past. So no man's heaven is in the present. In the future alone is pure, ideal, untainted joy.

"We are born pilgrims and strangers. The birds of the air have nests, and the foxes have holes, but man has no where to lay his head. He is the gypsy of the universe. He is the bird of passage of the world."

"But I have been happy," protested Anushka.

"Possibly," I said. "But what keys you up to live, what stimulates and inspires you, is not the happiness you expect to have.

"The surest, stablest thing in life is heaven. It rests upon the enduring stones of hope. Its pillars are all of the alabaster of anticipation. It is a city of eternity, not of time. Therefore it is that its gates are never shut, night nor day."

The Earth's Life Story

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

"Could you give us the names of all the geological periods, as they come; how they are connected with the glacial periods, and the names of the people in existence here in each period? I follow with much interest your articles dealing with primitive man and science and religion.—F. D. B., Oakland."

Man is not so old an inhabitant of the earth as you seem to think. Animals which ancient legends said were created only a "day" or two before Adam, and were then led to him to be named, really had existed tens of millions of years before the first man baby cried out his astonishment at being born.

The Primates, the order to which man belongs, came very late, only beginning their development in their higher forms after the last period, the Quaternary, had opened.

The Tertiary, the period began about 5,000,000 years ago, and that only within two or three hundred thousand years, including the close of the Tertiary and the Quaternary up to date, have the Primates, which include the anthropoid apes, been in existence.

The fishes began the latter part of the Ordovician period, became more and more abundant in the Silurian, and attained their maximum in the Devonian, after which they relatively receded in importance until recent times. The Batrachians began in the lower Carboniferous, or Coal, period, developed rapidly and as rapidly fell off at the end of the upper Carboniferous.

Then came the reptiles, starting in the upper Carboniferous, and attaining their zenith in the Jurassic or Cretaceous. The birds, derived from reptiles, had their start in the Jurassic and early Cretaceous. The mammals set forth inconspicuously at the end of the Triassic and had a relatively sudden and enormous development during the Tertiary. Then, as already mentioned, came the Primates, the highest branch of all, taking the last place in the order of development and of time.

Try to imagine a dotted line coming up from the beginning of the first period, the Cambrian, about 30,000,000 years ago, and connecting all of the various orders as they successively develop. This is intended to indicate the chain of relationship, or of evolution, binding all of the forms of terrestrial life in organic whole. Life in its humbler forms, such as that of mollusks etc. began even before the Cambrian. In truth the Cambrian was rich in nearly all orders of animal life below the vertebrates.

Even before the Cambrian the earlier orders had been developed, and they must have existed for ten, or perhaps hundreds, of millions of years, but their remains have been destroyed in the rocks that are older than the Cambrian by violent convulsions and partial remeltings of the earth's crust.

Now, the glacial period that is ordinarily referred to, and that is associated with the earliest remains of man, is all included in the Quaternary. It is called the Pleistocene, and is divided, as far as primitive man is concerned, into the Paleolithic, or Old Stone age, and the Neolithic, or New Stone ago. Taking them in their apparent order, the "names of the peoples," found to have dwelt in Europe in these "stone ages" are the Chellian, Acheulian, Mousterian, Aurignacian, Solutrian, Magdalenean, Azilian, Tardenoisian, Campignian and Robenhausian races. The latest in the series bring us up to the dawn of our own age.

Once Overs

BY J. J. MUNDY

You think you are very anxious to get to the top in your chosen work, but what do you do and how to do you act under criticism?

Do you "get by" as soon as possible and bewail the fact that your work does not receive commendation?

Are you always so sorry for yourself when you are told that your work is unsatisfactory that you cannot really remember in what way your work or effort is lacking?

As soon as you receive words of critical import, do you shut the doors to your mind and your soul and turn sour with ill-temper?

Do you snarl back or become sarcastic to those who have the temerity to suggest that you do certain things in a different manner.

Do you know that is your attitude toward criticism which proves your actual worth?

Do you know that it is only by criticism that you can grow better?

The kindest thing your friends can do is to put you in line for better things by letting you know wherein you lack.

You should be so glad to know where your failure lies that whether or not it is pleasantly stated melts into insignificance.

Hall's Distemper has led the way to a new era in house decoration—the era of brighter, cleaner and healthier homes.

It is the most durable of all decorations, lasting for years with freshness unimpaired, whereas wallpapers deteriorate from the first day by fading and accumulating dust and dirt.

Hall's Distemper is a thorough disinfectant, and is applied directly upon the wall, forming a hard surface, from which dust and dirt may be "spring-cleaned" by lightly sponging with warm water.

Hall's Distemper

Simple Hand-made Frocks for Children Take Precedence of the More Elaborately Designed Frocks They Have Been Wearing

A reaction seems to have set in against the profuse ornamentation of our children's frocks with woolen embroidered flower pots from which spring geraniums and primroses in barbaric greens, purples, oranges, blues and other hues that would bring a blush to the cheeks of any real garden geranium or primrose. Elaborately criss-crossed, much becuffed and be-collared and beknickered, frocks for little girls, frocks that show striking bits of patchwork or appliques in bright contrasting colors couched down with gay cotton or wool—frocks that suggest that the designer who produced them really ought to have been set to decorating Bulgarian peasant chinaware or Noah's ark patterns on nursery wall paper—frocks of this description with which the children's shops and departments were crowded a few months ago, are really not quite so much admired at present.

To be sure there was something appealing about these brisk and vivid designs. But when they no longer possessed the advantage of novelty or exclusiveness but were put out by the thousand alike then mothers of discrimination looked about for something different.

The result is that there is a revived interest in the very simple frock that shows very little or no trimming whatever. Some of the French frocks are made of voile or swiss with the simplest smocking at neck and shoulders—the edges finished with narrow Irish lace or simply rolled. Sometimes two materials are used—a dotted swiss and a plain swiss—a polka dotted dimity or voile and a voile in plain color.

The sketch shows how two materials of this sort are used together. Here, too, you have the long waist that seems to be gaining admirers both here and abroad. Oddly enough, while women's waistlines have been going downward to the knee there has been little disposition to make use of the long waist in children's clothes. Now that there seems to be considerable inclination to raise the waistline on women's frocks and wraps, the elongated waistline appears more frequently on the frocks of well-dressed little girls.

Long-Waisted frock for little girl. It is made of red and white dotted voile combined with plan white.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

TO REVIVE FLOWERS

If the flowers in your vase have begun to wither, add half an aspirin tablet to revive them. This really works.

LEBKUCHEN

Few dishes of German origin are more famous than lebkuchen or honey cake. Besides honey and flour they contain usually sugar, spices, some sort of liquor, almonds, citron, orange peel, etc. One thing interesting about them is that the batter is often made months before they are baked, the idea being that thus it has plenty of time to become perfectly smooth and well mixed.

WHEN YOU COOK BEETS

The best authorities on food and diet now advise us to eat beets, buttered, creamed, or even raw (!) in salad, but not to eat them in vinegar. One cooking authority bids us bake beets if we would know them at their best. If you like the taste of something sour with your beets then try using lemon juice instead of vinegar. A good plan is to rub young beets with butter or other fat and then to bake them for an hour and a half, or until tender. When done drop them in cold water and rub off the skin.

MAKE USE OF CABBAGE

Cabbage ranks next to potato among vegetables in the quantity consumed in this country and it undoubtedly occupies a very important place in the diet of those who set a modest table, owing to the cheapness of cabbage even in midwinter. There are over seventy different members of the cabbage family of which cauliflower and Brussels sprouts are two. Any sort of cabbage should be cooked in rapidly boiling water in an uncovered dish, and it should not be cooked to death.

At this time of the year it is possible to get succulent cabbage with green leaves. This is especially good if cooked rapidly, and then drained and cut with a knife and served with butter and salt. Leaves of white cabbage quickly cooked are delicious served with a white sauce, and cooked cabbage makes an appetizing dish if baked in a dish with white sauce poured over and a topping of buttered crumbs.

should, above all, keep herself in excellent health.

Her mind should be free from depression and that "tired feeling." Abnormal pains and aches should be viewed with genuine alarm.

Nothing is so really helpful in such cases, as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound tones up the whole system. By restoring and keeping the body healthy and normal, it frees the mind from depression and allows genuine happiness.

It is Sold at All Chemists

"My mother recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me before childbirth. I was irritable and easily worried. I lost my nervousness, had a better appetite and felt like a different person entirely. I hope this letter will help other women."

Each wrist pin used in Studebaker engines is carefully tested.

YES—it pays!

DOES it pay to give such close attention to the selection of raw materials and the testing of parts that Studebaker does in building motor cars?

Our answer is that it does.

We base our conviction on the service records of thousands of Studebaker cars. Here is one in California that has traveled a half-million miles. Another in Canada that has gone over 200,000 miles.

Scores of Studebaker cars have passed the 100,000-mile mark.

Long after many other cars have expired their periods of usefulness, Studebaker cars still keep going. From the first thousand miles on, owners learn to appreciate the advantage of the better materials and careful workmanship used in Studebaker construction.

Seventy-two years of manufacturing experience are behind Studebaker products.

Our Advertising

May be copied, our methods imitated,
But O.I.C. Service can never be equalled in the fitting of Comfortable-Becoming Classes at Reasonable Prices

Established two decades by one of the first foreign opticians in Shanghai, we are the first extensive and Largest Optical Advertisers in the Orient.

We were first to incorporate the Service of Oculist—Optometrist—Optician together with our own completely equipped manufacturing laboratory on the premises.

The O.I.C. has grown faster than any other local optician.

We were first to formulate and publish a Standard Guarantee of both our Examination and Glasses.

We were first to inaugurate a standard "one price" system on all frames—with prices marked in plain figures.

We were first to offer Genuine Sir Wm. Crookes' Toric Lenses ground to any prescription for $5.00 per pair, when others charge from $15 to $25.00. We were first to institut a repair Service whereby we duplicate and replace any broken lense for $1.00—regardless of the prescription in genuine Toric, Flat, White or Crookes Glass.

We were first to inaugurate "No charge for Small Repairs"—"Lense Duplicated while you wait"—"Cases and Antiseptic Cleaners Free"—"No charge for adjustments—Springs or Screws." Proof That O.I.C. is appreciated is in the fact that the leading business and professional men in China, including our Municipal Councillors are sponsors of O.I.C. Service and wearers of O.I.C. Glasses.

New York "Zoo's" Visiting List Numbers 2,500,000

Takes Money To Feed And House Big Animal Family And Zoological Society Is Hard Up

New York, August 8.—Is the annual visting list of an educational institution to be taken as an index of its popularity! If so then the 2,500,000 of annual visitors to the New York Zoological Park would seem to suggest that the Zoological Society has builded not only well but wisely. For years the enigmatic penguins from South Africa, the awkward kangaroos from Australia, the haughty but songless birds of paradise from New Guinea have lured their admirers all the long weary miles to the New York Zoo. No journey is too long for these admirers. Children have squealed with delight over the pigmy elephants and grown-ups have marveled at the length of the ant-eater's tongue. But it takes money to feed and clothe this largest of New York's families, and the Zoo is now hard up.

The last report of the Director of Zoological Park calls for "a showdown" on the part of the two groups of people who have made and maintained the park to date—the Zoological Society and the people of the City of New York. Director Hornaday asks the following three questions:

1. Are the people who made the Zoological Park, as private givers of time and money and as public taxpayers, going to maintain it on a satisfactory scale of perfection and efficiency?

2. Must it continue as the crippled child of New York institutions, living from hand to mouth, and begging from day to day for the means by which to exist?

3. Is the reputation that it has achieved as the undisputed leader of the world's zoological parks and gardens to be maintained unimpaired and increased, or is it to be regarded as something of little value and not worth preserving?

"At this moment," says Director Hornaday, "there is before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment an urgent application for an emergency appropriation of $30,000 for repairs to be made this year."

It is no longer open to doubt that out of a wilderness of 264 acres the Zoological Society has evolved the largest, the most beautiful and most valuable zoological park in the world. The creation of this mammoth preserve and the stocking of it with 3,352 specimens, representing 1,084 species, has been no child's play. Neither has it been a one-man job.

Primarily the Zoological Park owes its existence to the generosity of 3,000 public-spirited men and women who desired to create it not only for themselves but for a long line of succeeding generations. Twenty-five years ago the Zoological Society proposed to bear a part of the burden of making permanent improvements for this civic venture. It agreed to spend $125,000 in buildings, dens and aviaries during its first year of activity in park making and to double that amount if the city would make it worth while. The result of this policy has been the expenditure by the society up to the beginning of 1923 of a little more than $400,000 for twenty-eight buildings and other accommodations for living exhibits. The finest gift buildings are the Heads and Horns Museum, the Reptile House and the Aquatic Bird House. For the past six years or more the society has been spending each year for repairs to Zoological Park buildings approximately $16,000 money rightfully belonging to the fund for the purchase of animals.

The society is now seeking sufficient endowment and income from memberships to finance the tasks it has in hand. Mrs. Russell Sage's gift of $750,000 and John D. Rockefeller Jr.'s gift of $500,000 have been of great assistance, but the present need for more funds must be met if the high standard of park and museum is to be maintained. In a recent report by Raymond B. Fosdick on the affairs of the society the following statement showed the wide educational value of its many activities.

"Last year more than 4,500,000 people visited the two institutions (the Zoological Park and Aquarium). Other millions are reached through the motion pictures. The society has developed an unusually successful technique in animal photography, and films are widely circulated, since they are incorporated as parts of commercial films, particularly in the Pathe weekly news films. These pictures are shown all over the world, and it is impossible to estimate how many millions of people see each year the films prepared from the society's collections.

"The directors of the Zoo and the Aquarium, Drs. Hornaday and Townsend; the Curator of Reptiles, Mr. Ditmars, and the Honorary Curator of Birds, Mr. Beebe, are all popular writers, and have been very productive. This literary productivity is stimulated by the society as part of its conscious program of mass education.

"This very large audience, including the attendance at the Zoo and Aquarium, those who see the society's motion pictures, and the readers of the books and articles of interest of the subject matter, but produced by the society's staff, is a result not only of the intrinsic also of the vigorous effort of the society to reach, as it says, 'the millions.' It is clear that the society has had this as a conscious aim, and the final result has been neither accidental nor inevitable."

The Zoological Society is taking a prominent part in the efforts to preserve the fauna of North America and the fur-bearing animals of the world at large, especially those of Alaska. It has established and is maintaining a tropical research station at Kartabo, in British Guiana, and William Beebe has been conspicuously successful in his researches in the Galapagos Islands, India, the Malay Archipelago and China. The only land which to date has not furnished delegates to the world convention up at the Zoo is the Antarctic Continent, which seems to be closed territory. The Zoological Park needs $40,000 more a year than is now available for adequate annual maintenance, although this will not be sufficient to enlarge the work.
